

What is the process?

Contact the Department of Housing and Community Action Programs to determine if you meet the qualifications for a housing rehabilitation loan. Once an application is complete, staff will obtain verifications of income, assets, mortgage and credit to determine eligibility.

After you have been determined eligible, your home will be inspected to determine the repairs to be done. A work write-up will be prepared, which will detail all the work to be completed. Once you agree to the work write-up, your application will be submitted to loan committee for review and approval.

Once loan approval is obtained, loan papers will be signed, and a licensed contractor bid tour will be conducted. Sealed bids are usually due back to the office one week from tour date. The project generally is awarded to the lowest bidder.

After a contractor's bid is selected, a construction contract is signed at a preconstruction conference and repair work may begin.
