CURRENT SITUATION
Situation Summary:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> We have one new positive case. This person is a woman in her 50s who is isolated at home. The North State Federal Medical Station is making great progress. Processes are being developed and staffing is being secured. We will be opening a four-bed crisis stabilization unit for people who are in our emergency departments with mental health conditions. This will free up our emergency rooms while still providing our mental health patients with appropriate care. Shasta County Probation has taken on a leadership role in enforcing the stay-at-home order that requires non-essential businesses to be closed. Isolation and quarantine both help protect the public by preventing exposure to people who have or may have a contagious disease. Isolation separates sick people with a contagious disease from people who are not sick. Quarantine separates and restricts the movement of people who were exposed to a contagious disease to see if they become sick. It's very important to care for your mental health during this time of crisis, and we have some tips to help you do so. Visit www.shastaready.org and click on "Taking Care of Yourself."
